

Samuel Bradshaw

Mr. Edward Pate

English IV

25 January 2008

The Samuel: Ruler of the United States

I, Samuel, having been chosen by the people as ruler of the United States, hereby affirm that I will reign in fairness and justice for the welfare of the people of this great nation. I acknowledge that as I have been chosen by the people, I also may be recalled from my position by the people if I do not prove myself herewith, that I will do all in my power to serve them. I ask only for your support, and will gladly review any suggestions submitted to the National Suggestion Box.

I feel that no person can be fully qualified to fill such a responsible position as the one to which I have been elected, but I consider myself as qualified as any who would support the cause of freedom. In addition, I have fully studied, assessed, and analyzed the current issues, through Wikipedia, and have some ideas on how to solve these issues. These two things – my commitment to freedom and my educated ideas – will make me a good ruler in this country.

The most important political problem our country faces today is the national debt. I will solve this problem completely by printing new money and paying our creditors – this will be about $10 trillion in tens and twenties. Some say this will weaken our currency's value, but new research conducted by convicted criminals proves that it will not. In appreciation for their research, I will allow these prisoners to participate in a work-release program thirty hours each week to print the new currency.

The most important social problem plaguing our country is the pervasiveness of broken homes, single-parent families, and unmarried parents. The family is the basic unit of society. Every child has a right to be raised by a responsible mother and a father. The increasing divorce rate and the increasing number of children spending little or no time with their parents will cause this nation to fall apart and will make it vulnerable. The home should be a place where children can learn how to be good citizens. It should be a child's main refuge from the frightening and dangerous world in which we live. It should be a place where love and assurance is provided. To help solve this problem I will put a limit to the number of hours parents can work outside the home. I will provide compensation for parents with children who do not have the means to pay for them. I will set up national adoption services. This nation must realize the importance of family.

All this being said, I hereby accept this nomination and realize the great responsibility that it entails. I will try my best to ensure that this great nation will flourish and prosper. Under my control, the national debt will be abolished. It is my hope that the families in this country will be strengthened as well. My success as a ruler is dependent upon your support. As long as the people truly desire to maintain the cause of freedom, this nation will be free!